SECRETARY'S REPORT.

"Dum loquimur fugerit invida ætas."

CLASSMATES :—

The rapid flight of three short years has brought us to our first triennial festival. Laying aside for a moment our various daily occupations, we have returned to this Mecca of our hearts to dedicate one day to an interchange of friendly greetings, and to a rehearsal of all the triumphs or defeats, of the pleasures or disappointments which these past three years have brought with them. Full well do we know that here at least we shall find congratulations for our successes and sympathy for our failures.

While such a reunion must needs be an occasion of joy, there still mingles with it a certain degree of sadness. For our ranks, like all those marshalled upon earth, are broken; and as we welcome back one after another of those whose friendship we prize so highly, we look in vain for some whom we had fondly hoped would so often meet with us and share the pleasures of these glad reunions. But, alas! during these three short years, death has again and again visited us, removing from our number some in the very freshness of their manhood. The stars already mark the places once filled by Storrow, Bowers, Paull, I. H. Page and many of those who, while they did not graduate with us, will always hold a place in our memory as former members of the Class.

At this time the duty devolves upon me of presenting to you a Report of the Class, and a detailed account of what we have individually been doing since that Commencement Day when, bidding each other "God speed," we started forth from the protecting care of our Alma Mater to take our respective places amid the busy scenes of an active life.

For the material of which this Report is made up, of course I am obliged to look to you. It is, as it were, a "nosegay in which nothing is claimed as original save the string which holds it together." The fuller therefore your answers to the class circular were, the more satisfactory do your varied biographies appear. To you all my thanks are due for what each has done towards aiding its preparation; and especially would I express my obligations to all those, and they are many, who replied promptly to my letter, for they can never realize how much they assisted me, while endeavoring to prepare this Report amid a press of other duties.

In this Report are included the names of all those who were ever with us, no matter how brief their stay may have been. Some we hardly knew; but others were with us so long, and we knew them so well, that we could not bear to let them slip out of our number. As it would have been hard to say who should be omitted, in going through with the roll-call, I chose rather to have my Report a great deal too long than a word too short.

My endeavor has of course been to make this Report as accurate as possible; and all that is claimed for it is that its errors and defects are such as could not be avoided, so far as any desire or efforts on my part were of avail.

The next Report will be published in 1872, making its appearance at the same time with the Triennial Catalogue, and containing the correction of such errors as shall have been found in this. The next supper of the Class will be held in 1870.

If this Report shall serve to strengthen in the least our class feeling, and to keep alive the interest which we, one and all, feel in each other's welfare, its mission will have been accomplished, and the time spent in its preparation will not have been wasted.

Hoping that such may be the case, and wishing you success in your varied pursuits and many happy reunions in the future,

I remain, very truly, your classmate,

William L. Richardson.

BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD

Graduated Members of the Class.

GEORGE ABBOT. He was born in Westford, Mass., February 17, 1845.

Soon after graduation he entered the employ of the Abbot Worsted Co., in Graniteville, Mass. He remained there till the spring of 1866, when he sailed for Europe as United States Vice Consul at Sheffield, England. He occupied that position a year, and since then has been travelling on the Continent.

FREDERIC POPE ANDERSON. He was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, October 4, 1842.

October 17, 1864, he was appointed Adjutant of the 181 Ohio Vols. He was soon after appointed A. A. Adjt. Gen. on the staff of Maj. Gen. Schofield, which position he held till August, 1865, when he was mustered out as Brevet Major. Since then he has resided in Cincinnati, as proprietor of Longworth's Wine House. He was married May 29, 1866, to Louise Agniel, daughter of N. G. and Isaure Nettleton, of Cincinnati.

WILLIAM HYDE APPLETON. He was born in Portland, Me., June 10, 1842.

In November, 1864, he accepted the position of Usher in the Quincy Grammar School, Boston. This position he resigned in March, 1865. From that time till July, 1866, he was occupied in Boston as a private tutor. In September, 1866, he commenced the study of the law, in Providence, R. I., and is still engaged in that profession.

JOHN WYNKOOP ATWOOD. He was born in Muney, Penn., December 11, 1843.

Since graduation he has been engaged in the wholesale coal business in New York city. He is a member of the Harvard and University Clubs, and of the N. Y. Historical Society.

JOHN PERRY BARRETT. He was born in Watertown, Mass., February 19, 1841.

Immediately after graduation he entered the Andover Theological Seminary. Here he remained a year, when his failing health compelled him to abandon his studies, and in October of the following year he accepted an appointment in the Custom House at Savannah, Ga. He remained there till April, 1866, when "finding the atmosphere of the place too hot either for his health or his Union sentiments," he resigned, and returned to Boston, where he has since remained engaged in business.

JAMES EDWARD BATES. He was born at Great Falls, N. H., July 24, 1842.

Being the only member of the Class who refused to place his autobiography in the Class Book, I have been unable to answer inquiries made from time to time about him by various members of the Class. From a letter, however, dated May 10, 1867, I learn that since graduation he has been engaged in the study of the law, and was admitted to the bar in Boston, September 16, 1865. He was married at Portsmouth, N. H., March 6, of the same year, to Amelia, daughter of Frederick W. and Maria L. de Rochemont, of Newington, N. H.

LORING EVERETT BECKWITH. He was born at Mount Desert, Me., February 12, 1845.

In the fall of 1864 he entered the Lawrence Scientific School, for the purpose of pursuing the study of civil engineering. His eyesight failing him, he was obliged, however, to give this up, and in November he left for New Orleans, having accepted a private tutorship in that city. The following May he returned home. In October he entered upon a second tutorship at Champlain, N. Y., but, after continuing it for about two months, he was forced by ill health to resign. In January, 1866, he obtained a clerkship in the Statistical Bureau of the Sanitary Commission, which office he still holds.

RUSSELL NEVINS BELLOWS. He was born in New York, April 12, 1842.

He left the Class early in the spring of 1864, and was absent in California about a year, as agent of the United States Sanitary Commission. Returning just before commencement, 1865, he passed his examinations and received his degree as a member of this Class. Since then he has been engaged in the study of Theology, partly at the Union Theological Seminary in New York, and partly at home with his father, Rev. H. W. Bellows, D.D. He sailed for Europe in the "Ville de Paris," May 18, 1867, as companion to his father, who will be absent a year or more recruiting his strength, after his late arduous duties as President of the United States Sanitary Commission.

JOHN BINNEY. He was born in Philadelphia, February 23, 1844.

For the first eighteen months after graduation he resided in Philadelphia, engaged in the study of the law. In January, 1866, he entered the Berkeley Divinity School, at Middletown, Conn., where he is still engaged in the study of Theology.

JAMES THOMPSON BIXBY. He was born in Barre, Mass., July 30, 1843.

Immediately after graduation, he removed to New York, where he has since resided, engaged in teaching as a private tutor.

JOHN ADAMS BLANCHARD. He was born in Boston, April 6, 1842.

The first year after graduation he was employed as a clerk in the office of his uncle, Nathaniel Goddard, Esq. September 1, 1865, he formed a partnership with another uncle, Mr. William S. Eaton, for carrying on the business of importing Calcutta merchandise. September 13, 1865, he sailed in the "Africa" for England; and during the following year he was engaged in visiting various points of interest on the Continent. He returned to this country in November, 1866. He is at present a partner in the firm of "Eaton & Blanchard," of this city.

*CHARLES ALBERT BOWERS. He was born at Lexington, December 2, 1842.

His father, Rev. Charles Manning Bowers, is at present settled as minister of the Baptist church at Clinton. His mother's name before her marriage was Ellen Augusta Damon.

Soon after graduation he began the study of theology at the Baptist Theological Seminary at Newton. He remained there till the fall of 1865, when, his health breaking down, he returned to his home in Clinton, where he sunk rapidly till October 29, when he died of phthisis.

At a meeting of the Class, held at the Parker House, November 4, 1865, it was

"Resolved, That in the death of Charles Albert Bowers, the Class have suffered a severe loss; since his college career gave promise that he would become an honor to the Class and a useful member of the ministry, his chosen profession.

"From his retiring nature he made but few acquaintances while in college, but to those few he strongly endeared himself by his many excellent qualities of mind and heart.

"That the Class extend to the family of the deceased their sincere expressions of sympathy in the severe affliction which they have been called to suffer."

GEORGE CALLENDER BRACKETT. He was born in Boston, September 6, 1838.

Soon after Class-Day he entered the service of the United States Sanitary Commission in Virginia, where he remained till the fall of 1864. He then opened a private school for young ladies in Brooklyn, N. Y., which he still has charge of, and which now numbers sixty-five scholars. He is a member of the Long Island Historical Society.

CHANDLER BALCH BRAMAN. He was born in Georgetown, Mass., August 17, 1841.

After graduation he commenced the study of medicine, partly under the charge of his father, and partly at the Harvard Medical School, and graduated in March, 1866. In the fall of the same year he passed successfully the Board of Medical Examiners at New York, and received the appointment of Assistant Surgeon in the regular army. He remained in the army till the spring of 1867, when on account of the ill health of a member of his family, he was obliged to resign. During his connection with the army he was stationed successively at Petersburg, Richmond, Va., New Orleans, and in Texas.

After leaving the army he returned to Brighton, where he is now residing. Before entering the army he held for some time the office of Examining Surgeon for State aid in Brighton, Mass.

FRANKLIN LEONARD BUSH. He was born in Boston, August 8, 1843.

In March, 1865, he became a candidate for orders in the diocese of Connecticut, and commenced studying for the ministry in New London. In October he entered the Berkeley Divinity School, in Middletown, Conn., and was admitted to the Order of Deacons in June, 1867. He is at present Missionary for New Haven County, and resides at Yalesville, Conn.

JAMES DEARBORN BUTLER. He was born in Sanbornton, N. H., November 9, 1842.

Soon after graduation he accepted the position of agent of the Manchester Coal Company, in Pottsville, Penn. He remained there till May, 1865, when he returned home. In the fall of 1865, he commenced the study of the law in Portsmouth, N. H., where he is still preparing for his admittance to the bar.

WILLIAM HARRISON CHADSEY. He was born in Rushville, Ill., May 15, 1840.

During the winter of 1864–5, he taught in Anthon's Select and Classical School in New York. The year and a half that followed, saw him engaged in the oil business, and speculating in the Pennsylvania oil regions. Since then he has been occupied in travelling throughout the West. He is at present engaged in completing his preparation for admission to the bar in Des Moines, Iowa.

HORACE PARKER CHANDLER. He was born in Boston, September 13, 1842.

In the fall of 1864 he removed to Chicago and commenced the study of the law in that city. On account of his health he was obliged to give up studying, and in June, 1865, he went into the publishing business, the firm being E. B. Myers & Chandler, Law Publishers. He was married in East Bridgewater, August 15, 1865, to Grace Webster, daughter of James H. and Harriet L. Mitchell, of that town.

DANIEL LA FORREST CHASE. He was born in Grafton, Mass., May 15, 1841.

No information has been received from him since our graduation ; but I am informed that he has resided in Chicago, Ill.

JOSEPH LONGFELLOW CILLEY. He was born in Exeter, N. H., December 23, 1842.

In August, 1864, he joined the Artillery Brigade of the 9 A. C., before Petersburg, Va., as a citizen clerk in the Quartermaster's Department, under his brother, Capt. J. R. Cilley, A. Q. M. He remained with him till his brother was transferred to the 3d Div. 9 A. C., when he was made first clerk. This position he held till July, 1865, when he left the United States service. In November, 1865, he removed to Pittsburgh, Penn., and in a few weeks accepted the position of Ass't Manager and Book-keeper of the Etna Iron and Nail Works.

RICHARD CODMAN. He was born in Boston, January 31, 1842.

He was married, April 20, 1865, at King's Chapel, Boston, by Rev. H. W. Foote, to Susan W., daughter of Henry J. Sargent, of Boston. He soon after sailed for Europe, where he has since remained, engaged in travelling.

EBENEZER PUNDERSON COUCH. He was born in North Bridgewater, Mass., January 16, 1840.

Soon after graduation he took up the study of chemistry, and entered the Chemical Assay Office of Partz & Buck, in New York. He is now engaged as chemist for C. Elton Buck, analytical and consulting chemist, in that city.

WILLIAM MUNROE COURTIS. He was born in Boston, January 7, 1842.

In September, 1864, he entered the Lawrence Scientific School, where he pursued the study of civil engineering till August, 1865, when he sailed for Europe. Since then he has been a member of the "Royal School of Mines," in Freiberg, Saxony, preparing himself to be a Mining Engineer.

One of the principal events of his life apparently was the fact, that, during the summer vacation of 1866, he made the "vorbereitungscurs" at the Smelting Works, after which he took a trip through Switzerland [probably to recover from the effects—Class Sec.]. He expects to return next summer.

CHARLES HENRY COXE. He was born in Philadelphia, January 2, 1840.

Immediately after graduation he became a student in the "Free Military School for applicants for the command of Colored Troops." After ten weeks study at the school, he was examined, October 1, by Gen. Casey's Board of Examiners at Washington, D. C. From this board he received a recommendation to the Secretary of War, for appointment as Major in a colored regiment. At this time the work of recruiting colored soldiers began to abate, so that no chance offered of appointment to a majority.

February 24, 1865, he entered the service of the United States, as Captain in the 24th Reg. U. S. C. T., and was assigned to the command of Co. B. July 27, he was assigned to duty with the Freedmen's Bureau in Richmond, Va. Near the end of September he assumed the command of his Company, and was mustered out with the regiment at Richmond, October 1. He then returned to Philadelphia, where he has since resided.

In October, 1866, he applied for the vacant Professorship of Moral Science, History, Rhetoric, &c., in Girard College; passed an examination for the position, and, as the result of it, was invited to fill the chair, on trial, as a candidate for election. February 13, 1867, he was regularly elected by the Board of Directors of Girard College a Professor in the institution.

GEORGE GLOVER CROCKER. He was born in Boston, December 15, 1843.

Soon after graduation he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained three terms. In the summer of 1866 he received the degree of LL.B. Since then he has been engaged in the study of the law in the office of Tuxbury & Crocker, 19 Court Street. He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar, July, 1867.

PRENTISS CUMMINGS. He was born in West Sumner, Me., September 10, 1841.

Immediately after graduation he removed to Portland, where he remained a year—the first half of the time in charge of the High School, the latter half in the law office of Nathan Webb, Esq. The next year he passed in Cambridge as a member of the Law School; holding also, after Thanksgiving, the office of Proctor in the College.

Last October he received the appointment of Tutor in Latin in the College, which position he still holds.

MARSHALL MUNROE CUTTER. He was born in Cambridgeport, April 9, 1843.

Soon after graduation he entered the store of Cutter, Tower & Co., of this city. In the fall of 1865 (?) he entered the Andover Theological Seminary, where he still remains engaged in the study of theology.

CONSTANT FREEMAN DAVIS. He was born in Cambridge, November 22, 1843.

In the fall of 1864 he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained eighteen months, receiving the degree of LL.B. in the summer of 1866. In September, 1865, he was appointed a Proctor in Harvard College, which office he held for one term. In February, 1866, he was obliged by ill health to leave Cambridge, and he resided in Washington, D. C., till the following summer. June 20, 1866, he sailed from Boston for Liverpool, as private tutor to his cousin. He spent the ensuing eleven months in travelling on the Continent, and reached Boston again, May 23, 1867. About the first of July he sailed from Charlestown, in the Sloop of War "Guerriere" (the Flag-ship of the South American Squadron), as Secretary to his father, Rear Admiral Davis, who assumes command of the squadron. He may be absent two years, and on his return he intends to practise law.

RICHARD HENRY DERBY. He was born in Boston, March 12, 1844.

In the fall of 1864 he began the study of Medicine under Prof. J. Wyman, at Cambridge. He remained under his charge a year, attending, however, the lectures delivered before the Medical Class of Harvard University during that winter. In the fall of 1865 he entered the Harvard Medical School, where he remained till May 1, 1866, when he entered upon his duties as House Surgeon of the Massachusetts General Hospital. Here he remained a year. By special permit he passed the customary medical examinations May 4, and sailed for Europe in the steamship "Cuba," May 8. His intentions are to remain abroad, probably at Vienna, for some time, pursuing the study of his profession. He receives the degree of Doctor of Medicine this Commencement. He is a member of the Boylston Medical Society.

JOHN ALVAREZ DILLON. He was born in St. Louis, Mo., October 29, 1843.

He was married at the St. Louis Cathedral, January 25, 1865, by his Grace Archbishop Kendrick, to Blanche, daughter of Neree Valle, and grand-daughter of the late Henry Chouteau. He soon after sailed for Europe, where he still remains. A daughter, Gertrude Pia Dillon, was born in Rome, February 21, 1866; and a son, John Alvarez Dillon, Jr., was born in the same city, February 19, 1867.

JONATHAN DORR. He was born in Louisville, Ky., January 1, 1842.

From the time of his graduation till April, 1865, he was employed as clerk in the house of Townsend & Co., Boston; from that time till the following April, as clerk in the service of the U. S. Sanitary Commission. The following six months he was engaged in the coal business. October 1, 1866, he formed a partnership with J. H. Horton, Esq., under the firm of "Horton & Dorr," as Commission Merchants and Dealers in Leather, &c. He is a member of the Boston Society of Natural History.

JOHN LORING ELDRIDGE. He was born in Provincetown, Mass., December 25, 1841.

In September, 1864, he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained till July, 1866, when he received the degree of LL.B. July 21, he was admitted to the bar. May 7, 1867, he was commissioned a Justice of the Peace for the County of Suffolk.

JAMES HENRY ELLIOT. He was born in Keene, N. H., November 5, 1842.

The year following his graduation he enjoyed his "otium cum dignitate" at his father's house in Keene. In September, 1865, he removed to New York and commenced the study of the law in the office of Martin & Smith, where he still remains. April 29, 1867, he was admitted to the New York Bar.

WOODWARD EMERY. He was born in Portsmouth, N. H., September 5, 1842.

The two years immediately following his graduation he spent as a member of the Harvard Law School in Cambridge, and in July, 1866, received the degree of LL.B. Since then he has been pursuing the study of his profession in an office in this city.

WILLIAM CHANDLER FABENS. He was born in Marblehead, March 1, 1843.

After graduation he entered the office of Ives & Lincoln, Salem, Mass. Here he remained a year. He then entered the Harvard Law School, where he studied till January 15, 1867. Having passed the requisite examination before Judge Brigham, he was admitted as a member of Essex Bar in February. In April he opened an office in Lynn, 9 Exchange Street, where he is now located.

GEORGE HENRY FALES. He was born in Boston, February 26, 1842.

Since graduation he has resided in Newport, R. I., with the exception of sixteen months (November, 1865—February, 1867,) passed in Boston. During the first eight months he taught school. Since then he has been studying medicine.

ORLANDO MARCELLUS FERNALD. He was born in Candia, N. H., September 1, 1840.

Soon after graduation he accepted the office of Principal of the High School in Exeter, which position he held till 1865, when he removed to Springfield, where he holds the place of Classical Teacher in the City High School.

ALBERT LEVI FISK. He was born in Lowell, Mass., October 3, 1844.

The first year after graduation he spent at his home in Lowell. During the second he was engaged in teaching in a private school in Chicago, Ill. Since last September he has been Assistant in Chemistry to Professor Cooke, at Harvard College. In December he was appointed Proctor, and as such occupies No. 5 Gray's Hall; engaged both as an Assistant and as a Student in Chemistry.

REGINALD HEBER FITZ. He was born in Chelsea, May 5, 1843.

In the fall of 1864 he began the study of Medicine under Professor J. Wyman, at Cambridge. He remained under his charge for a year, attending, however, the winter course of lectures at the Harvard Medical School. In the fall of 1865 he joined the Harvard Medical School. Here he remained till April 1, 1867, when, having been selected in a competitive examination for House Physician at the Boston City Hospital, he entered upon the duties of that office. His term of service will expire April 1, 1868.

ISAAC FLAGG. He was born in Beverly, Mass., September 7, 1843.

The first year after graduation he was occupied in teaching in the Gerritt Smith Academy, Peterboro', N. Y. The last two years he has held the position of Tutor in Greek in Harvard College. He is Corresponding Secretary of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

WM. MERCHANT RICHARDSON FRENCH. He was born in Exeter, N. H., October 1, 1843.

From May 16 to August 15, 1861, he served as Corporal in the 12 Unatt. Co., Mass. V. M. Subsequent to that he resided in Cambridge, engaged in studying Engineering, till April, 1867, when he removed to Chicago, where he at present resides as an Engineer.

MAURICE GODDARD. He was born in Brookline, March 26, 1840.

In the fall of 1864 he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained till May, 1866. He received the degree of LL.B. the following Commencement. He then entered the office of Charles C. Dame, Esq., where he remained till July, when he entered the office of Messrs. Ranney & Morse, where he is engaged in the study of the law. He was made a Justice of the Peace in the spring of 1867, and was admitted to the Bar the following summer.

ARTHUR GORHAM. He was born in Boston, December 31, 1842.

Since graduation he has passed a year or more in Colorado and the various mining regions of the West. The last six months he has been engaged in travelling in Cuba and through the South. Soon after his return North he entered the store of James L. Gorham & Co., of this city.

FRANCIS GORMAN. He was born in Springfield, Mass., September 4, 1840.

Since graduation he has been engaged as Principal of the Howe School in Billerica, Mass.

LA ROY SUNDERLAND GOVE. He was born in Amesbury, Mass., April 2, 1838.

Soon after Class Day he entered the service of the U. S. Sanitary Commission in Virginia. Returning thence the following September he entered the office of A. J. Heath, Esq., in New York. April 20, 1866, he was admitted to the New York Bar. At present he has an office as Attorney and Counsellor at Law, 74 Wall Street, New York.

HORACE GRAVES. He was born in Marblehead, Mass., January 12, 1839.

Since graduation he has been engaged as private tutor and also in the study of the law. He was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in February, 1867. He soon after removed to New York, and entered the office of Stickney & Whipple.

CHARLES PELHAM GREENOUGH. He was born in Cambridge, July 29, 1844.

Returning to Lowell he resided at Tewksbury (upon the outskirts of Lowell) till the commencement of the lectures at the Harvard Medical School, when he returned to Boston and joined the medical class. He left Boston the Friday preceding the Thanksgiving, more unwell than usual. (He had never wholly recovered from an attack of sickness which had greatly prostrated him the previous summer.) A severe cough set in, and he sank rapidly and died of phthisis March 2, 1866. At a meeting of the class, held at the Parker House, March 24, 1866, it was

"Resolved, That, while we bow in sorrow at this inscrutable dispensation of our Heavenly Father, our hearts tell us that we have lost one whom we have long felt to be a true friend, cherished companion and noble brother, whose genial spirit and warm soul have endeared him to us, and whose unswerving fidelity and able mind have ever commanded our instinctive respect.

"Resolved, That a special tribute is due to one who has struggled so bravely for many years for the sake of an education, and who, in spite of all the hardships and trials that he experienced, so faithfully persevered in the attainment of his object.

"Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased our sympathy with them in the solemn hour of their bereavement."

WILLIAM ROBERTSON PAGE. He was born in St. Louis, Mo., October 9, 1843.

In September, 1864, he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained till January, 1866. The commencement of that year he received the degree of LL.B. *GEORGE MARSHALL PAULL. He was born in Taunton, April 14, 1841.

His father, Frederick Augustus Paull, and his mother, Samantha (Tinkham) Paull, still live at Taunton. Soon after graduation he accepted the position of teacher in the Academy at Myricksville. The fall term (1865) commenced with about forty scholars, and he was obliged to employ an assistant teacher, the labors being too severe for him. October 7 he caught cold, hæmorrhage from the lungs followed, and the bleeding continued at intervals till October 24, when he was compelled to give up his school. On the afternoon of that day he went to East Stoughton to consult a Doctor, but the journey was too much for him, and on October 27 a second hæmorrhage took place as he was about to sit down to dinner. Before it could be stopped the bleeding had been profuse. His strength gradually failed till November 3, when he died.

At a meeting of the class, held at the Parker House, December 29, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, Our dear friend and classmate, George Marshall Paull, has been taken from us at a time when we were anxiously and hopefully looking for his recovery, and we wish to show our great sorrow at his loss and our high appreciation of his manly qualities:

"Resolved, That we regret our inability to give adequate expression to our admiration for his noble and gentle character, his sincerity, modesty and the many endearing qualities by which we shall always remember him.

"That in our grief we are consoled by the knowledge that the qualities which characterized his life enabled him to meet death with cheerfulness and resignation.

"That we tender to his family our sincerest sympathy in their severe bereavement."

ROBERT SHAW PERKINS. He was born in Dorchester, July 6, 1842.

From September, 1864, till August, 1865, he lived in Boston, as a clerk in the house of Wm. Perkins & Co. From August, 1865, till September, 1866, he was engaged in travelling through Europe, visiting Greece, Italy, &c. Since his return he has resumed his position as clerk in his father's store.

GEORGE WINSLOW PIERCE. He was born in Boston, March 24, 1841.

EDWARD BLAKE ROBINS. He was born in Boston, December 18, 1844.

He served as Private in the 12 unattached Co., M. V. M., from May 16 to Aug. 15, 1864, receiving a furlough in June, which enabled him to be present at the examinations and Class Day. He joined the 20 Regt. of Massachusetts Volunteers as first Lieutenant, being mustered in Nov. 11, 1864; and was immediately appointed Adjutant of the regiment, which position he held till Dec. 21, 1864, when he was appointed A. A. D. C. to General Macy, commanding 1st Brig. 1st Div. 2d A. C. In March, 1865, Gen. Macy was appointed Provost Marshal General, Army of the Potomac, and Robins accompanied him to Army Head Quarters, and served with him on General Meade's Staff till the end of the war and the breaking up of the Army of the Potomac. Gen. Macy was then transferred to the command of the 1st Brig. 2d Div. Provisional Corps, on the breaking up of which Robins was mustered out with his regiment, July 16, 1865. He immediately returned to Boston. Was commissioned Bv't. Capt. U. S. Volunteers, April 9, 1865, "for gallant and meritorious services in the campaign resulting in the fall of Richmond and the surrender of the insurgent forces under Gen. Robert E. Lee." During the September and October following he was in the dry goods commission house of Minot & Hooper, Boston. From November, 1865, till the spring of 1866, he was studying in the mill of the Hyde Park Woollen Co. Since May he has been acting as salesman in the dry goods commission house of J. C. Howe & Co., Boston.

NATHANIEL CURTIS SCOVILLE. He was born in Pitcairn, N. Y., February 22, 1837.

He entered the Harvard Law School in the fall of 1864. After leaving the Law School he taught for some time as an assistant in the High School in Watertown, N. Y. He then removed West, and is at present practising law in Kansas City, Missouri.

EDWIN PLINY SEAVER. He was born in Northborough, Mass., February 24, 1838.

The year after graduation he was engaged as teacher in a private school in New Bedford. The two last years he has held the position of Tutor of Mathematics in Harvard College.

ARTHUR GEORGE SEDGWICK. He was born in New York, October 6, 1844.

June 23, 1864, he received a commission as first Lieutenant in the 20 Mass. Vols. Soon after entering on active service he was captured by the Rebels and confined for some time in Libby Prison. He was paroled September 11, and February 3, 1865, was discharged for disability contracted in the service. Since the following March he has been engaged in the study of the law, and is at present in the office of Chandler, Shattuck & Thayer of this city.

*SAMUEL STORROW. He was born in Boston, July 24, 1843, the youngest son of Charles Storer and Lydia (Jackson) Storrow.

He was fitted for College at the Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and entered Harvard in July, 1860. At the commencement of the Junior year, having obtained a temporary leave of absence, he was mustered in as Corporal of Company H, Forty-fourth Mass. Vols., September 20, 1862. Accompanying the regiment to North Carolina he remained there during its whole term of service, and was mustered out on the 18th of June, 1863. He rejoined his class and graduated. He immediately applied for a commission in the Second Mass. Vols. While waiting for an answer to his application he entered the office of H. W. Paine, Esq., of Boston, as a law student. On the 22d of September, 1864, he received a commission as First Lieutenant in the Second Massachusetts. He immediately started for Atlanta, Georgia, and reaching his regiment was mustered in October 25, 1864.

The Second Massachusetts formed part of the Twentieth Army Corps, in the left wing of Sherman's army, which left Atlanta about the middle of November, on its march to the Sea. In his captain's absence Lieutenant Storrow commanded his company through the whole campaign, until after the fall of Savannah, when he was detailed for staff duty on application of his regimental commander, who had just been brevetted as Brigadier General. The order was dated January 16, 1865. He acted as Aid to General Cogswell during the march across North Carolina. During an action in which his brigade took part, March 16, 1865, about twenty miles from Fayetteville, N. C., and while engaged in carrying an order to the left of the brigade, he was wounded about four o'clock, P.M., and died about twenty minutes afterwards. He was buried near the battle-field till the following winter, when his remains were recovered and re-interred (January 6, 1866) in the family tomb at Mount Auburn.

At a meeting of the Class held at the Parker House, April 6, 1865, it was resolved :—

"That our sadness at this the first loss which we, as a class, have been called to bear since graduation, is mingled with feelings of pride that he fell so nobly and so cheerfully in the discharge of his duty in that cause which he had always considered the most glorious to which he could devote his life.

"As we look back upon our college life, we cannot but remember the marked characteristics which distinguished our friend. His independence, his energy and firmness of purpose, his manliness and integrity of character won our love and respect, and promised a career of honor and usefulness through life.

"Though reserved in manner, those, who knew him well, felt and appreciated his warm nature, cordial sympathy, true and hearty friendship.

"While dwelling on our own great loss, we would remember with tender sympathy his family in their far deeper sorrow."

GEORGE BURDER THAYER. He was born in Randolph, Mass., November 8, 1841.

He left this country in the fall of 1865, arriving in Paris in November. Since then he has resided in that city, engaged in the study of architecture.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS.

First Meeting.

July 20, 1864. The meeting was held in the Institute Room, in Cambridge, at 8.30 A.M. Butler presided. The Report of the Class Committee was read by the chairman of that committee, and accepted by the meeting. The Class Secretary then presented his First Annual Report, copies of which were distributed among the class. A vote of thanks to the Class Secretary was then passed.

The following resolutions, offered by Richardson, were unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the thanks of the Class of 1864 of Harvard University, be presented to Professor Peabody for the thoughtful and generous kindness which we received at his hands on Class Day; and at the same time we would not be unmindful of the various means he has ever employed, during our whole college course, to render our connection with him, as pupil and teacher, one which we must ever remember with feelings of the deepest respect, gratitude and affection.

"Resolved, That the above resolution be entered in the Class Book, and a copy of the same be forwarded to Dr. Peabody."

Adjourned.

Second Meeting.

April 6, 1865. The Class met at the Parker House, at 3.30. Present,—Appleton, Blanchard, Cogswell, Cutter, Davis, Derby, Emery, Fernald, Gorham, Hagar, Haven, Heath, Horton, Lilly, Merriam, Perkins, C. C. Read, Richardson, Washburn, Waterman. 20.

Blanchard presided. Records of the last meeting were read and accepted. The Secretary announced the death of Lieut. Storrow. After some appropriate remarks by Blanchard and Gorham, a committee, consisting of Blanchard, Gorham and C. C. Read, was appointed to take such action as should seem to them best. [See page 31.]

Adjourned.

Third Meeting.

July 19, 1865. Holworthy 4 was secured for the use of the Class. The regular refreshments of the day were provided. The annual business meeting was held at 12.30. Present,—Abbot, Appleton, Atwood, Beckwith, Bellows, Binney, Bixby, Black, Blanchard, Brackett, Braman, Butler, Cilley, Cogswell, Couch, Courtis, Coxe, Crocker, Crowninshield, Cummings, Cutler, Davis, Derby, Dorr, Eldridge, Elliot, Emery, Fabens, Fernald, Fitz, French, Goddard, Gove, Graves, Hagar, Hare, Heath, Hodges, Horne, E. Sixth Meeting.

March 24, 1866. The Class met at the Parker House at 3.30. Present,—Appleton, Beckwith, Braman, Crocker, Cutter, Johnson, Lawrence, Morris, Munroe, Pierce, Richardson, Robins, Sprague. 13.

Pierce presided. Secretary's Report was read and accepted. The Secretary announced the death of Mr. I. H. Page, and Morris, Lawrence and Crocker were appointed as the Committee on Resolutions. [See page 24.]

The Chairman of the Class Committee announced that the Special Committee for the Alumni Hall on the part of the Class of 1864 would consist of Richardson, Sprague, Crocker and Appleton.

Adjourned.

Seventh Meeting.

July 18, 1866. Stoughton 7 and 8 were secured for the use of the Class, and refreshments were provided as usual on Commencement Day. The annual business meeting was held at 12.30. Present,—Appleton, Atwood, Beckwith, Bixby, Brackett, Braman, Cogswell, Crocker, Cummings, Cutter, Dorr, Eldridge, Elliot, Emery, Fabens, Fernald, Fisk, Fitz, Goddard, Gorham, Gove, Hagar, Horton, Kennedy, Lawrence, Lilly, Mackin, Morris, Munroe, Owen, Parker, Pierce, C. C. Read, W. Reed, Richardson, Robins, Scoville, Seaver, Sprague, Ward, Waterman, Wildes. 42.

Gove presided. Secretary's Report was read and accepted. The Secretary then presented his Third Annual Report. The Chairman of the Class Committee presented his Report, in which among other things it was stated that "notices of all class meetings would be sent to all members, with the exception of those known to be abroad, instead of publishing them in the daily papers."

A vote was then passed, in reference to meetings to be called on the death of classmates, that "hereafter the jurisdiction of the Class Committee should apply only to graduates." C. C. Read, Emery and Wildes were appointed to draw up appropriate resolutions on the death of Mr. Crowninshield; and Fernald, Fisk and Fabens as a similar committee to take action in regard to the death of Mr. Corey.

The Class then joined in singing the Class Song; C. C. Read, in the absence of Bellows, acting as chorister.

Adjourned.

ALUMNI HALL.

At a meeting of the Class, held at the Parker House, March 24, 1866, the chairman of the Class Committee announced that the Special Committee for the Alumni Hall, on the part of the Class of 1864, would consist of Richardson, Sprague, Crocker and Appleton.

This Committee issued a circular, under date of May 1, 1866, to all the members of the Class. Answers and subscriptions were received from Appleton, Atwood, Bixby, Black, Blanchard, Brackett, Cilley, Courtis, Coxe, Crocker, Cutter, Derby, Dillon, Dorr, Elliot, Emery, Fernald, Fitz, Flagg, Goddard, Gorham, Graves, Hagar, Hodges, Horton, Kennedy, Lawrence, Lilly, Lincoln, McFadon, Merriam, Morris, Munroe, Neal, Palmer, Perkins, Prentiss, C. C. Read, Richardson, Robeson, Robins, Sedgwick, Sprague, Thayer, Ward, Waterman, Wells, Wildes. 48.

The total amount of subscriptions was $1297.00; being $297.00 more than the amount which the general Finance Committee of the Alumni had assigned to our Class as its proportion of the building expenses. This money has been invested in Government Bonds, and the interest derived from its investment has been appropriated to the use of the Class Committee in meeting the various expenses of the Class. As soon as the Committee who have charge of the erection of the Alumni Hall announce that the plans for the building are definitely agreed upon, and the work of its erection is begun, the money will be transferred to the Treasurer of the Building Committee.

William L. Richardson,
Henry H. Sprague,
George G. Crocker,
William H. Appleton,
Committee of the Class of 1864.

CLASS FUND.

At the time of our graduation the sum of $642.00 was subscribed towards the establishment of a Class Fund. In July, 1865, the first annual subscription of $342.00 was paid. In July, 1866, the second annual subscription of $355.00 was received. The amount of the Class Fund at present, therefore, is $1339.00. The amount due to the Fund this July amounts to $376.00. All but nineteen of the Class are subscribers to this Fund. Thus far the proceeds from the investment of this Fund have paid all the regular expenses of the Class, and about fifty dollars were appropriated towards reducing the expense of the triennial supper to the subscribers to the Fund.
